What is mentoring?

Mentoring has been defined as the process by which one person who is experienced and with outstanding achievements guides the entry level individuals and stakeholders for their overall development.

Why mentoring is needed in colleges?

Mentoring is about building relationships. To be very precise mentoring is a powerful personal development and empowerment tool. Mentoring in college is needed to make students (especially new entrants who are not acquainted with the atmosphere of the college) feel to have a caretaker and hence feel homely, fearless and confident and can share any kind of problem inside the college premises and also the social and economic issue. Mentoring provides the mentees an opportunity to think about their weakness, strength and accordingly work on these things to overcome. Also to think about career options, academic growth from time to time.

Objectives :-

- Imbibing values (How important is education in anybody's life, value of parents and family, positive thinking and progress in right direction and right path)
- Ensure personal and academic growth
- Provide an opportunity to learn and practice professional networking skills
- Shape mentees into confident and skilled graduates

Committee Members :-
